

GERMANY ANNOUNCES THAT GENERAL WAR IS CERTAIN IN LATE BERLIN BULLETIN

Siezure Of Trans-Atlantic Shipping, Mobilization Of Troops, Closing Of Stock Exchanges All Denote Strife Coming.

SERBS ARE MAKING STUBBORN FIGHT

Wildest Enthusiasm Reported In Russia Over War Prospects, France Sends Armies To German Frontier, Other Preparations Made.

Conversations were resumed today by the Russian and Austrian governments.

Marshall law was proclaimed throughout Germany.

Stock exchanges were closed everywhere.

Several encounters between Austrian and Serbian troops resulted in the Serbian's successful resisting the invaders' advance.

The great German liners, Imperator and Vaterland, were taken off the trans-Atlantic service.

Wild patriotic enthusiasm prevailed all night at St. Petersburg.

Vienna has been kept in ignorance of events at the front, and Germany has imposed a rigid censorship on dispatches which are greatly delayed.

Washington, D. C., July 31.—A dispatch from a diplomatic source in Berlin announces that it is officially stated in the German capital that a general European war now seems certain. Gibraltar has been fortified and its garrison strengthened and preparations made for a general conflict.

BULLETIN.

St. Petersburg, July 31.—The Emperor of Russia today gave an audience to the German ambassador, and subsequently, presided over a full council of ministers attended by the chief of the army general staff.

London, July 31.—Official announcement of the resumption of the "conversations" at St. Petersburg and Vienna came today at a moment when pessimism had taken possession of all Europe. The hope that it might lead to a peaceful solution was grasped with desperation, but the news was offset by the declaration of martial law in Germany which was regarded as a preliminary to the mobilization of the German forces for war.

Everybody then seemed to settle down to await the news that the great European powers had decided to enter in a struggle for supremacy. There was nothing to give the public hope that a general war might be evaded.

Russia Mobilizes Fleet.

The momentous announcement was made by Premier Asquith in the house of commons today that Russia has mobilized the general mobilization of her fleet, and in consequence martial law has been proclaimed in Leningrad, and a general mobilization followed.

A central news dispatch from Berlin says the Russian troops blew up the railway bridge of the Warsaw-Vienna railway.

A central news dispatch from Paris says telephonic communication between France and Germany has been interrupted since four o'clock this afternoon.

Asquith's Statement.

Premier Asquith's statement was as follows:

"I have just heard, not from St. Petersburg, but from Germany, that Russia has proclaimed the general mobilization of her army and her fleet, and that in consequence of this, martial law is to be proclaimed in Germany."

"We understand this to mean that mobilization will follow in Germany if the Russian mobilization is general and proceeded with."

Germany Fears War.

Berlin, July 31.—The morning passed without a break in the heavy war cloud over the European horizon, and there was no relief to the almost despairing uncertainty existing in the German capital. Excitement continued to increase.

It had been generally expected that today would bring the decision for peace or war, and when a decree was promulgated proclaiming martial law and consequent military government, all began to think that armed conflict could be the only outcome.

German officials, however, refrained from making any definite declarations saying they preferred to wait till all the resources of diplomacy had been exhausted. It was well understood that the issue of an order for the mobilization of the German forces would be tantamount to a declaration of war, and it was decided to postpone this action until the last possible moment in which there was a ray of hope for peace.

Situation Growing Worse.

It was admitted that the situation had become worse during the last twenty-four hours, but the fact that both Germany and France issued official denials of their intention to mobilize was regarded as a sign that everything possible was being done to prevent a clash.

It was evident everywhere, that the military authorities were quietly preparing for the speedy moving of troops, in case the order for mobilization should be given.

Members of the various royal families of Germany, spending their vacations away from their home, hurried back today.

Martial Law Declared.

A decree proclaiming martial law and the prohibition of the publication of news of the movements of German troops and war materials, was issued today.

The proclamation announces military measures on the frontiers, the armed protection of the railroads and the restriction of telegraphic, postal and railroad services, except for military purposes.

Russian Patriotism Stirred.

St. Petersburg, July 31.—The population of the Russian capital was kept awake throughout the night, and the streets resounded with the din of patriotic demonstrations. A quick succession of special editions of the newspapers kept the excitement at boiling point, and the vendors had a hard time in supplying those anxious to read the latest dispatches which, in many cases, were read out loud to the public.

Great processions paraded the streets, the demonstrators carrying flags of the emperor. Loud cheers were shouted for the emperor and the army.

Impromptu meetings were held in all parts of the city and the orators of the emperor, Lord Chester, were heard in their excitement greeted and embraced one another.

In France.

Paris, July 31.—In no case had any considerable force of French troops advanced closer to the German frontier than six miles.

The French foreign office officials were more pessimistic today because as they explained, the gravity of the situation was increasing with the lapse of each day.

At the same time it was said that it must not be assumed that all hope of a peaceful solution had vanished. The French government, it was asserted, would leave nothing undone to further this object.

France, it was pointed out, rather than seem to be in the least provocative in foregoing the justifiable advantage and mobilization of her, would give her and will not make any move until the British have done so.

The slight amount of hope perceptible is based on problematical contingencies.

There has been much talk of Germany's approaching Austria and Russia, but it is explained, but the fact is, according to official information, that Germany has done nothing, and clear and definite action on the part of Germany alone, can open a way out of the present deadlock.

Pekin July 31.—The British fleet today despatched the battleship and sailed at mid-day with sealed orders, thus fulfilling its long standing obligation to defend the place not worth defending.

Activity In Far East.

Pekin, July 31.—Hong Kong is to be made the British naval base and Russian waters and the German blockade of Tsing-Tiao is to be blocked.

Wei-Hai-Wei has no fortification, while Tsing-Tiao is fortified on both land and sea sides. The Germans have their fortifications will afford them ample protection.

The Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth, on which the guards of the Austrian legation embarked, left today for home, but will remain at Tsing-Tiao.

The Italian gunboat Sebastiano Caboto, also is sailing toward Tsing-Tiao.

German blue jackets today dismantled the steamboat Vaterland at Brussels.

The German imperial railway administration today informed the management of the Belgian state railway that all international trains into Germany had been suspended.

Suffragettes Declare Peace.

London, July 31.—The headquarters of the British suffragette association headquarters today sent an announcement to all branches throughout the United Kingdom, to cease any militant acts during the present international crisis.

Crown Prince In Command.

Berlin, July 31.—Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany was appointed today to the command of the first division of the imperial guards army corps.

Military Rule In Germany.

London, July 31.—A dispatch from Berlin to Reuters Telegram Company says that a state of war has been proclaimed in Germany, and that the German means in other words martial law, under which the military authorities take charge of the situation.

in conformity with paragraph 65 of the constitution of the German empire. The kingdom of Bavaria, however, is excluded from the operation of today's proclamation and will have to issue a similar decree, if it desires to do so, as it is an independent kingdom. Today's proclamation was signed by the German emperor as king of Prussia.

Block Road to Nish.

An Exchange Telegraph Company's dispatch from Nish, Serbia, via Salonika, says that up till last night the Austrian invaders at Semendria had not succeeded in forcing the pass held by the Serbian troops, possession of which would give them access to the Morava river valley, and thus open up a direct road to Nish.

Another dispatch from Nish says desperate fighting continues along the river Drina. Both Austrians and Serbians have sustained heavy losses. The Austrian division, after fighting fiercely all day, failed to force the difficult leading to Nish and Repolje.

Resumes "Conversations."

It was officially announced here today that "conversations" had been resumed between the Russian and Austro-Hungarian governments.

Situation In Vienna.

Vienna, July 31.—Attention in Vienna was greater today than at any time since the start of the international crisis, although nothing definite had occurred to change the situation for the worse.

The Nova Fria Presse insists today that Russia must cease to keep putting off and must say distinctly and unreservedly what she intends to do.

Fighting on Frontier.

Austrian frontier guards today reported a strong attack by Serbians near Klotitz on the Bosnian frontier, without sustaining loss. The Serbians lost one officer and twenty-two men.

No German Mobilization.

Berlin, July 31.—Attention this morning office gave assurance this morning that no mobilization order would be issued in Germany today. Officials admitted that the situation had not improved, but had become rather aggravated since the issue of the Russian mobilization order.

Order Prohibits Exports.

The German federal council today issued a decree prohibiting exports of grain, flour, foodstuffs, meats, animal products, automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, coal, oil and other oils. This goes into effect immediately.

Enthusiasm In Vienna.

Vienna, July 31.—Popular enthusiasm in connection with the war against Serbia gave no sign of abating today. The German and Austrian newspapers of the Portuguese capital today reminded the public that the treaty of alliance between Portugal and Great Britain requires Portugal to furnish ten thousand troops to England when she is at war.

Mobilize Dutch Army.

The Hague, July 31.—Queen Wilhelmina of Holland today issued a general mobilization of the Dutch army.

French Keep Watch.

Paris, July 31.—Military movements on the German side of the frontier were very active today and the French covering troops sent out outposts.

Arrest Russian Spy.

Allenstein, Germany, July 31.—A Russian spy was arrested here today. He is said to belong to the St. Petersburg military intelligence department.

Almost Captured.

Athens, Greece, July 31.—The Montenegrin royal yacht Delgara was almost captured today by the Austrian fleet blockading Antofari. The yacht was approaching port, but when she sighted the blockading fleet turned and fled. She was pursued by Austrian destroyers, but arrived safely at Corfu.

Orders Extra Reserves.

Berne, Switzerland, July 31.—The federal council today ordered the mobilization of all men between twenty and forty-eight years of age, capable of bearing arms.

WIVES COLLECT THEIR HUSBANDS' SALARIES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Los Angeles, July 31.—Nearly 200 long suffering wives collected their husbands' wages from the county today. Whether the husbands in question got any of the money depends entirely upon the willingness of the wives to declare a divorce.

The disbursement by the county was a partial working out of an experiment of giving work on the highways to men who are cited for failure to provide for their families, "making little ones out of big ones," on a rock pile in the common employment. Each wife received every cent of her husband's wages at the end of the month.

STRIKE ORDER READY FOR ALL ENGINEERS ON WESTERN ROADS

FIFTY-FIVE THOUSAND ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN WILL BE CALLED OUT AUG. 7TH.

Presidents of Brotherhoods and Firemen in Statements Today Declare Railroads Have Repudiated Arbitration.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, July 31.—A strike of fifty-five thousand firemen and engineers on ninety eight railroads operating west of Chicago has been set for Friday, August 7, it was officially announced today.

William S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. F. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, declared the order would be put into effect unless the general managers' committee of the railroads accepted the plan of settlement proposed by the federal board of mediation.

In a signed statement, Presidents Stone and Carter asserted that after the managers' committee had invoked the service of the federal board of mediation, the managers' committee had repudiated the plan of settlement proposed by the federal mediators, and "thus the burden of the responsibility of the strike must rest upon the railroads."

The principal cause of the strike, according to the statement of Messrs. Stone and Carter, are:

"The manner in which railroads have repudiated arbitration agreement. The manner in which the managers' committee had excited the anger of the engineers in the service by their arbitrary action."

"Because the railroads seemed determined to force the employees to abandon the mileage basis of pay without being able to adopt the hourly basis of pay."

CANCEL SAILING OF STEAMER IMPERATOR

European War Clouds Compel Hamburg-American Company to Postpone Liner's Voyage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, July 31.—The Hamburg American steamship company announced that the sailing of the steamship Imperator from Hamburg today has been cancelled. The Hamburg American company sent notices to the 300 first class passengers waiting here for the Imperator that the company had been compelled to postpone the sailing of the vessel, owing to the clouded political situation.

The passengers, of whom about 30 per cent are Americans, returning from European trips, had been left by the company to make their own arrangements.

Among those who had booked on the Imperator was Thomas Nelson Page, American ambassador at Rome, who was returning to America for a vacation.

Vaterland Is Held.

Besides suspending the sailing from Hamburg of the Imperator, it was reported today that the Hamburg-American Line had also ordered the Vaterland to stay at New York and await the developments of the international situation.

Liner Is Recalled.

New York, July 31.—The President Grant of the Hamburg-American Line, which sailed from this port yesterday, has been recalled by wireless.

Paris, July 31.—La Provence of the French Transatlantic line was requisitioned today by the French minister of marine for the service of the republic. She is to be armed at once, and the crew has been withdrawn from the transatlantic service.

SPENCER MET DEATH EARLY THIS MORNING

Murderer of Mrs. Allison Rexroat Pays Penalty on the Gallows for Brutal Crime.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Wheaton, Ill., July 31.—Henry Spencer, who murdered Mrs. Allison Rexroat, a teacher of dancing, ten months ago at Wayne, Ill., on the small station, was hung here today at eight o'clock.

He lured Mrs. Rexroat to a night of entertainment, shot her through the head, took her case and abandoned it, and placed her body on the railroad tracks, the night of September 27, 1913.

Wheaton, Ill., July 31.—Henry Spencer, "hang murderer," and dubbed by criminologists "the man without a soul," went to death on the gallows here today for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Allison Rexroat, Chicago dancing teacher, near Wayne, Ill., on the night of September 28, 1913.

Only a small knot of spectators saw the death trap sprung. Those included a score of newspaper reporters and photographers from Chicago, and a few intimate friends of Sheriff Kuhns of DuPage county, who had charge of the execution.

The crime for which Spencer paid with his life, was a brutal and cold-blooded murder, and a long and painful trial, during which he had killed nearly a score of women in all parts of the country and the apparent cheerfulness with which he received the verdict of death, attracted the interest of the public. Aliens and criminologists, even admitting the strange influence exerted by opium upon Spencer's brain, pronounced him one of the most remorseless criminals of recent years.

Allison-Rexroat who shortly after her divorce from her first husband, Allison, had married Rexroat, a young farmer living near Macomb, Ill., was engaged as a tango teacher at a Chicago dancing school. She boarded an interurban car on the night of September 28, for Wayne, Ill., a short distance from Chicago, and was alone in the car when she was killed.

Early the following morning her body, horribly mangled, was found on the railroad tracks near Wayne, in a lonely ravine. Close examination showed that the tango teacher had been slain before her body was struck by the train.

Various clues were run down by the police, without success, and at least a dozen suspects were arrested before Spencer was taken in custody. Then by a queer turn of fate, the man who afterward described himself as both a lady-killer and a womanizer, was betrayed by a woman to whom he offered a $300 diamond ring he had taken from the body of the murdered woman.

Lured to the woman's home, Spencer was trapped and arrested by detectives after a desperate struggle. His trunk, in a rooming house run by a quiet elderly couple on the South Side, revealed more evidence concerning his crime, and he was found a severe sweeper he broke down and confessed.

Under skillful guidance from the police, Spencer was a weak-faced little man with rat eyes, recited a remarkable crime record. He swore that he had killed more than twenty persons, mostly women, had robbed and assaulted many others, and had set fire to a big apartment, causing the loss of another life.

By communicating with authorities all over the country, a large part of Spencer's amazing tale was discredited. In a few instances facts apparently supported his claims that he had other murdered victims on his list.

Reciting his story, the Rev. Johnstone Meyers of Immanuel Baptist Church, came forward to tell that Spencer had been a regular attendant at his church and had professed to be deeply interested in church work. Spencer's trial in the little brick court house here was full of thrills. He frequently rose in his seat to denounce the judges, and to utter threats against the jury and the court. Once he knocked his own attorney down in open court and his incessant cry during the trial was "Let's out the politicians." He put on his best act, but he was not willing to be hanged.

Against Spencer's own confession and incriminating circumstances, the defense could offer only a plea of insanity, and that he was a victim of a police "frameup" and was being railroaded to the gallows. The jury gave this little consideration and on November 18, Spencer was hanged early in December. His attorneys secured a stay of execution and took an appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court. On June 15, 1914, the supreme court affirmed the lower court's verdict, ruling that evidence of Spencer's depravity was not sufficient to justify the opinion that he was insane. The supreme court fixed the execution for today between the hours of 9 a. m. and 11 a. m.

Since his imprisonment here, Spencer has read the Bible daily and has had weekly talks with church workers. He has not changed his declarations that he was ready and willing to die.

NEW YORK 'CHANGE SUSPENDS BUSINESS DUE TO WAR SCARE

GRAVITY OF EUROPEAN SITUATION BRINGS BUSINESS TO A HALT OVER THE WORLD.

OTHER MARKETS CLOSE

Bank of London Raises Rate of Discount to Eight Percent—All European Business is Paralyzed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, July 31.—The New York stock exchange was closed today on account of the European situation. The consolidated stock exchange and the New York curb market had ceased business. This was followed immediately by announcement of the closing of the exchanges in other chief cities throughout the country.

With the suspension of business here transactions in securities the world over came virtually to a halt. New York, for the last few days, had been the only great market of the world to carry on business as usual.

It was at the meeting of bankers at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., that the decision was reached, and after a long discussion it was decided that the strain on credit might reach a dangerous degree if the exchanges were opened.

Stock exchanges have notified their offices not to make deliveries for received stock until further notice.

Morgan Issues Statement.

J. P. Morgan today issued the following statement:

"Alarming as the news is from Europe, we are still hoping that there will not be a general war. While the gravity of the situation is hardly exaggerated, there is still the opportunity for the sober second thought of the people of Europe to prevail over their first impulses. If the delicate situation is not held in abeyance for a few days, I should expect a rising tide of protest from the people who are to pay for war with their blood and their property."

"The situation of the New York stock market during the past few days has been a splendid illustration of the inherent soundness of it."

"While we all earnestly hope that the New York stock exchange might be kept open, the situation is fraught with so much uncertainty that it seems necessary in the interest of the people of this country to close the exchange."

Old Firm Assigns.

New York, July 31.—The stock exchange here will not open today. Similar actions were taken by Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

London, July 31.—The London stock exchange has been closed until further notice. The decision to close the exchange was taken by the committee at a meeting held this morning.

The committee also announced that the settlement of August 15, had been postponed until August 22, and that the consols settlement due August 6, has been put over until September. Stock which has yet to be delivered for the account just closed, must, however, be paid for.

WILSON PLANS BILL TO HELP SHIPPERS

President Confers With Leaders On Introducing Legislation to Register Ships.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 31.—President Wilson had a plan in mind for bringing much of the shipping of the world under the American flag during European troubles by having congress pass a law admitting to American registry the vessels of other nations.

He summoned Senator Keam and Representative Underwood to the White House today to discuss the advisability of introducing such a bill.

The president believes that the merchant ships of European nations would be glad to register under the American flag at this time in order to prevent being pressed into service or being captured as prizes, under existing laws it is impossible for foreign ships to take American registration.

MISSTATEMENTS ARE CHARGED TO PHILIPP

Nils P. Haugen of Tax Commission Charges That Candidate Misrepresented Facts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., July 31.—That Emanuel L. Philipp, candidate for governor, misrepresented facts in the valuation of railroad properties by the railroad and tax commission in his speech at Burlington July 17, as directly quoted in press reports, is the charge made today by Nils P. Haugen of the Wisconsin tax commission.

Mr. Philipp charged that in making their respective valuations the railroad and tax commissions employed two different experts, that their valuations disagreed, and one set was paid to decide that the others did not know their business.

Contradicting Mr. Philipp's statements Chairman Haugen says there is only one set of experts, the joint engineering staff, only one report is made and no double expense is incurred. This has always been the case, he says, since the two commissions were organized for the purpose of valuing the railroads and other public utilities. The expense is a divided charge against the two commissions, of late years about one-third being charged to the tax commission and two-thirds to the railroad commission.

Mr. Haugen also points out that the price on the railroad is a fixed charge that the roads could be sold for an amount far exceeding the cost of reproducing their physical properties. When this is true the tax commission must tax the entire value of the railroad, and the railroad must pay for its properties or by franchise and intangible properties.

Mr. Philipp's statements as reported not only charge the commission with extravagances, when Mr. Haugen says that they are reasonable, but they also charge the commission with this service in a manifestly economical way but they seemed designed to prepare the way for a campaign such as is now being conducted by railroads in the state of Washington, for a tax valuation of the railroads.

Mr. Philipp's plan, he says, "would reduce the assessment of the more prosperous roads by many million dollars."

CHICAGO EXCHANGE BRAVES WAR SCARE

Chicago Board of Trade Men Refuse to Close Door of Exchange Despite Dangers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, July 31.—In the face of unprecedented war possibilities and notwithstanding chances of failure, the cause of the difficulty of final settlements of July contracts, the Chicago board of trade today, through its officials, refused to close the doors of the exchange. No suspensions took place, one of the largest houses announcing that it would receive the transfer of any trades which could not otherwise be closed.

Wheat prices fluctuated in a lively manner during the opening hour, declining six and one-eighth, but thereafter were comparatively steady, closing with five and three-quarter to six and one-eighth cents net.

CHARTER TWO BANKS FOR SMALL VILLAGE

Appeal Board Has No Discretion Than to Approve Articles for Both Institutions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., July 31.—The second bank to be incorporated in three days for the village of Rockland, La Crosse county, has been approved by the state banking department yesterday. The place has only 150 people, and under the new law which Commissioner A. E. Kuolt championed and which the appeal board set aside the department had no discretion to approve articles for both institutions. It was to prevent the duplication of banks in small communities which largely inspired the passage of the law. The second bank at Rockland was called the Rockland State Bank and the capital is $10,000. The incorporators are S. R. Jones, Peter Larson, Evan D. James, N. C. Berg and John Wolf.

COUNTY MAY REFUSE TO PAY ASSESSMENT FOR STREET PAVING

City Seeks to Collect $1,238 From County for Improvements on St. Lawrence Avenue.

Will Rock county pay an assessment of $1,238.36 for the paving of St. Lawrence avenue? The city of Janesville evidently contemplates collecting that amount as a city improvement notice has been filed with the county clerk stating that such is the sum which the county is expected to contribute. The paving of St. Lawrence avenue from East street, at the upper end of the Court House Park to Park street, has just been completed for the city at a total expense of $4,755.82. The improved street extends the whole length of the park and the city seeks to hold the county responsible for part of the improvement as a result.

No definite action can be taken by the county in the matter until the county board meets in November, but it is probable that there will be considerable opposition to the payment of the assessment by the county. It is stated that this is not the first time the city has attempted to hold the county for paving work, but the county has refused to pay on all former occasions and has escaped without assessment. It is further pointed out that the city has a perpetual lease of the Court House Park under certain conditions and agreement which exempt the county from such charges. The whole matter will doubtless open up some interesting legal points.

The proposition made by the city contemplates one-half payment of cost of the improvement as assessed against the park frontage by the county and one-half by the city, the total assessment against the park being $2,476.72, or about half of the total cost of the entire improvement to the street. The city expects to reach an amicable settlement with the county, which benefits from the improvement as well as the city. The charge is deemed a fair one as the park is county property, and the fact that it is leased to the city does not alter the situation, it is held.

Examinations in Teachers' Training School and Summer Review School Take Place Today.

After a successful term of six weeks the teachers' training school and the review school closed today. Examinations in both of these schools have been in progress yesterday and today and were finished this afternoon. The training school was attended by over a hundred prospective teachers making this year the most successful one in the history of the school. The review school, which had charge of the work this year, were: Mr. Duell, Mr. Artubuthnot, Mr. Lowth, Mr. Antisdel, and Miss Jacobsen.

The summer review classes have also met with great success. The work this year was experimental, but has proven itself a success. About thirty-five in all took advantage of the opportunity offered, the majority being girls who took up work in domestic science. This class was taught by Miss Nellie Cronin. The review class in geometry was the only class of boys in the school. The class was taught by Allen West, Jr., son of the regular geometry teacher during the winter months. About ten have taken part in this work and a great deal of progress has been made. The review feature in this summer review feature, if a sufficient number are interested, and introduce a number of new classes.

BREAKS YEAR PLEDGE; GIVEN TERM IN JAIL

Otto Buegge Given One Year Under Commitment Law for Second Offense Drunkenness.

Breaking a pledge means a year in the county jail for Otto Buegge, who was sentenced to the jail today for a second offense of drunkenness. Buegge was arrested by Judge H. L. Maxwell to be taken as an example. Buegge was arraigned in the municipal court on the charge of second offense drunkenness and after waiting his examination pleaded guilty to the charge.

Buegge took the pledge on May 17 and was at that time given a light sentence for intoxication. "I was not really drunk," declared Buegge in court. "You don't look it," remarked Judge Maxwell as he gave the man's companion with his black eye and bloody nose casual attention. After giving Buegge the year in jail Judge Maxwell stated to the prisoner that it would be the last jail sentence he would ever draw in the Janesville municipal court. Buegge was ordered to report to Sheriff Whipple while serving his sentence under the commitment law.

TOBACCO CROP GETS MUCH NEEDED RAINS

Effects of Drouth Which Began to Show Removed by Showers.—Early Fields Being Topped.

Local rains early in the week that very generally covered the tobacco growing sections of the state came in the nick of time and have proven the salvation of the early portion of the tobacco crop, which was beginning to show the plucking effects of a week of extremely hot weather and drouth. Cooler weather that has followed, with the supply of moisture replenished, has given time to the tobacco crop, which was being topped, to their usual size and give a satisfactory crop. So much depends upon weather conditions at this stage of the growing crop that a prolonged drouth with hot drying winds like that of a week ago might mean thousands of dollars to the growers. Every day it continued. But fortunately rain came in the present and giving almost sufficient moisture to carry the early fields to maturity. The later tobacco is also given a boost that will help send it along at an amiable pace.

The early set tobacco is being topped quite generally now, while the later fields still need considerable cultivation to advance a satisfactory growth. Some work of rebanding is still under way at the warehouses and stemming operations furnish employment for considerable labor. The market for old leaf furnishes no news worthy of mention, trade being confined to small orders.—Edgerton Reporter.

CAVE-IN ENDANGERS WORKMEN IN SEWER

Three Workmen Escape Falling Banks of Ditch on Oakland Ave.—This Morning.

Three workmen, employees of the city, escaped serious injury and possible death when a large portion of the bank of the ditch of the Oakland avenue sewer, caved in early this morning. The men were working in the ditch, and the falling earth fell into the sewer ditch, causing considerable delay to the work.

At present a force of fifteen men are employed and the three foot sewer has been constructed as far as Third street. The manhole, twelve feet in depth, has been finished and the forms taken out of three quarters of a block of the sewer work. The new sewer is being laid in place of the old one, which was unable to accommodate the water from this territory.

Connection this year will be made on Main street with eighteen inch pipe to the river and early next spring the council plans to extend the three foot sewer down to the river as the drainage problem in this district has been a difficult one to solve. The work is being supervised by Street P. J. Goodman, who will be able to complete this year is uncertain because of limited funds, but the officials hope to reach Wisconsin street at least. The city is now mixing machine is being employed and with this machine the work is progressing rapidly.

YOUNG WOMAN HIT BY STREET CAR IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Young woman... Jured in Accident at West End of Milwaukee Street Bridge.

Miss Hulda Erickson of Sparta, Wisconsin, who is employed by the Brittingham and Hixon Lumber company, was severely injured when struck by a west bound Milwaukee street car shortly before two o'clock this afternoon. It is feared that the young lady may be paralyzed below the waist from her injuries, as she was dragged a considerable distance by the car. Dr. Fred Sutherland, who was called on the case, was unable to state the full extent of the injuries, outside of serious bruises.

The young lady was attempting to cross the street at the west end of the bridge and had stepped onto the street behind a dray that was going east. She failed to notice the west bound car and stepped directly onto the track in the path of the oncoming car. She was knocked down and thrown some distance in front of the street behind a dray that was going east. She failed to notice the west bound car and stepped directly onto the track in the path of the oncoming car. MAY GET PLACE ON PRIMARY TICKET BUT NOT BE NOMINATED

The failure of a candidate for political office to comply with the law requiring the filing of expense accounts for political purposes will not only operate to prevent his name from appearing on the primary election ballot but will operate to forbid the certifying officer to place his name on the ballot for the general election in November, is held by Attorney General Owen in an opinion yesterday to District Attorney Charles F. Morris of Iron county.

Attorney General Owen points out that the law does not prohibit the certifying of a name of a candidate for nomination in a primary or the printing of the name of a candidate who has failed to certify his expense account but only prohibits the certifying of such candidate's nomination and printing of his name on the official ballot for the coming election. "The result of this is that as far as the law is concerned a failure to file expense accounts as required by law does not affect the right of a candidate to a place on the primary ballot, but only affects the right of the candidate who receives the highest number of votes in the primaries and who would otherwise be entitled to be certified, to have his name placed upon the election ballot as the nominee of his party."

"In this connection it is proper to add that, in the absence of an official record in the office of the county clerk or the secretary of state or other official whose duty it is to certify to the nomination and to prepare the election ballot, showing clearly and positively that fact, no such official will assume to withhold such certification or refuse to print the name of the nominee upon the election ballot upon an assumption or upon statements made to them that a candidate has made political disbursements without making a report of the same as required by law. In the absence of any such expense account being filed the assumption of either of these officials that no disbursements have been made or obligated and no contributions received.

"Of course, if a candidate has filed an initiated sworn statement showing receipts and disbursements, but has failed to file a subsequent statement required by law, then doubtless the filing officer may take notice of his record and refuse to certify the nominee and refuse to print his name on the official ballot. Otherwise, however, and generally, he should certify the nominee and print his name on the ballot, unless some proceedings are brought in a court of competent jurisdiction to establish the nominee's qualification and the printing of his name upon the ballot."

WELSH WILL RETIRE FOR WORK ON STAGE

Newest Thing in Champions Running True to Form of Belt Holders and Will "Fight the Stage."

By "Strikes."

Short-men in America are wonderful. There are any number of honors that the foreigners can win from the U. S. A. Since the return of Willie Ritchie to the home land and his telling of a tale of how he was doing a bit of a victory over Welsh in London, fans have been looking for a fight with a man who could back the title. According to Welsh, he was to do a blow and a blow across the ring and cover up. Ritchie declares he will leave for any California and meet all comers, and then give the Welsh champion a running in their next meeting.

On the other hand, Welsh, the latest ring champion, has virtually retired from the ring for a year. The Welsh mitts will be discarded and the new champion will keep the ring. Welsh is running true to form as a champion, for having the belt he now can name his own price. It is a sure bet Welsh will not hold the belt long. He is now at the center of the game when the best of the game is ready to retire. Welsh has been battling for eight years and met many hard pugs in America.

Sport Snap Shots

The Germans are nosing out the Irish in our national diversion. For a long while it was thought that the Irish had the edge on the Germans in baseball and that there were more Irish names of prominence in the field of American baseball. A recent examination of the dope shows, however, that this is no longer the case. The Germans are coming ahead. For example, in the list of American league pitchers recently printed there is to be found only two honest-to-goodness Irish names, while there are some fifteen German ones. And there are quite a few more that might be German. In the batting averages of the American National league of some forty-five pitchers there are four names that seem really Irish and fourteen German. And when the batting averages of the National league of some forty-five pitchers there are four names that seem really Irish and fourteen German. And when the batting averages of the National league of some forty-five pitchers there are four names that seem really Irish and fourteen German.

Some day Charley Somers, the Cleveland Nap owner, may take a notion to start a league all his own. As it is, he owns almost enough ball teams to get it under way. Besides the Naps, he owns the Cleveland A. A. team, the New Orleans and Portland (Ore.) ball clubs. The traveling expenses in each league would be rather high, but perhaps Somers could trade his distant clubs for a few not so far away.

Ray Demmitt, the Sox outfielder, has a chin that would make him a fortune in the ring. He could stop for a sort of a blow with it and probably fracture his opponent's mitt. In a game not so long ago with the Athletics Demmitt collided with Buck Weaver's head. It left a decided dent. Nor is Weaver's just exactly a soft dome at that.

There is at least a score or so of New Yorkers who will be disappointed in the Giants cop the pennant. Same as being the members of the Yank team. The Yanks are hoping the Cubs will beat the Giants out so that they can beat the Giants in a post-season series and make a little extra piece of change. Which is a pretty fair reason.

Speaking of pitchers losing tough games, it might be well to point out the one Jim Doherty, Sox pitcher, lost to Washington. He held the Senators without a hit for nine innings and then lost out in the tenth. And a short while ago Lefty Allen of the Sox lost the Cubs but one hit and then lost at that.

The Boston Red Sox have a list of players on their pay-roll that reaches all the way around the bases. Bill Carrigan, the manager, has to keep a secretary to tell him who plays with him and where. Lannin, the Boston owner, grabs every player of any promise he can find.

A Philadelphia sport writer whose critical faculty seems to be of unusual excellence declares that when Schang, the young Athletic catcher, overcomes his wildness and acquires more experience and baseball wisdom he will be one of the best catchers in the game. And perhaps when Walter Johnson acquires a little more speed he will be favorably regarded as a pitcher.

Tonsilitis seems to go great with the Giant pitchers. McGraw would do well to keep a few team germs about and sick them on his pitchers. But ever they start a slump. After a short attack of tonsilitis, McGraw pitched a one-hitter game and Marquard, under the same circumstances, beat the Pirates in twenty-one innings and held the Reds to two bingles.

Walter Johnson says that change in his style has hurt his pitching this season. But Christ Mathewson says that the change he has made in his style has helped his pitching.

The Austin, Texas, league team has worked up a pretty neat record in winning twenty-seven games in a row. This bit of news should inspire quite a few teams of bigger leagues.

Bill Carrigan, the Red Sox manager, regards his young friend, Walter Rehg, as the best utility infielder in any league.

CARDINALS TO PLAY MADISON ON SUNDAY

Crandall Will Attempt to Make It Three Straight Games This Week Is Game Here.

On Sunday the Janesville Cardinals will attempt to make it three straight games this week when they cross bats with the Madison city team at the Association Park grounds in the afternoon. Twice within the last seven days the Cards have trampled on Beloit teams and the home nine will be out Sunday to increase their average. Crandall will occupy the pitching knob Sunday against the aggregation from Madison, and will probably increase his record by a nice long list of strike outs. In the games against the Beloit North Ends and the Beloit Moose Wednesday Crandall has allowed but six hits, two runs in the eighteen innings and has fanned thirty. (League scouts please take notice). Hall will be Crandall's battery mate Sunday.

The rest of the Cardinal team have been playing great ball of late and all are sticking well over two hundred. Porter is proving a sensation at first this year, both in fielding and hitting. Butters, at second, is fielding perfectly but his hitting has not as yet been as heavy as last year. Hell at short is hitting over the three hundred mark and fielding great ball during the last few games. Ryan has played third base for the Cards for the last few games and is playing better ball than he showed last year. In the outfield Nehr, Berger and Sullivan are fielding strictly up-to-date and have been the heavy hitters on the nine.

Seats in the grand stand will be completed for the fans Sunday and a large crowd is expected at the pastime as the local team has not played on the local diamond in some time. At Crystal Springs the Janesville Cardinals and Black Hawk nines cross bats at the Eagles' festivities. The Reds defeated the Black Hawk tribe in an early game, and the Hawks are out to even the score.

The Janesville Stars play the Beloit Collie Hill nine at east park.

MANY FOREIGN CARS ENTERED AT ELGIN

Cream of European Racing Creations Will Compete at Elgin Sweepstake Races.

That the private car owner has become a big factor in the road racing game is evidenced by the number of entries being received for the Elgin races of Aug. 21-22 by men who have no connection whatever with the manufacture of motor cars. Up to date fourteen cars have been entered with officials of the Chicago Automobile Club, and of that number, eight have been nominated by private owners.

GREGG'S NOW RED SOX, BOSTON GAY

Veau Gregg.

Veau Gregg, now a Boston Red Sox through a recent deal with the Naps, will do a great deal, it is thought, to advance the Boston bunch in the flag chase. His work with the Naps, where he was discontented, was so indifferent as to make his loss scarcely appreciable to Cleveland, though he is regarded as one of the best southpaws in the game. Gregg and Cleveland fans regarded one another with keen disfavor.

HERE'S DAVIS CUP DEFENDER IN ACTION

Maurice E. McLaughlin.

Here's the very latest picture of Maurice E. McLaughlin, California, net star and by many regarded as the best tennis player in the world. He is the most important member of the American tennis team which will meet the Australians in the struggle for the Davis cup.

That these men are actuated by purely sportsmanlike motives is shown by the fact that all of them have promised to turn over to the drivers any purses they may be successful in winning.

The men whose names appear on the list of entrants include E. C. Patterson of New York, E. J. Schroeder of New York, L. C. Erbes of Minneapolis, William Ziegler of New York, Charles Erbsen of Chicago and Frederick Robinson of Chicago. Mr. Patterson has entered the German Mercedes driven to victory in the recent French Grand Prix at Lyons by Lautenschlager. Ralph DePalma has been signed by Mr. Patterson to drive the car at Elgin. Mr. Schroeder has named the Peugeot with which Goux won 1913 international sweepstakes at Indianapolis, but he has not as yet announced who his pilot will be. Mr. Erbes is backing Bob Burman, who will drive the Peugeot which was handled by Bollit in the last 500 mile race at Indianapolis. Three cars have been entered by Mr. Zeigler—two English Sunbeams and a Stutz. Harry Grant will drive one of the Sunbeams, while the other will be piloted by some driver still to be named. The Ziegler Stutz will be handled by Frank Dearborn. Mr. Erbsen, who has put in a Marmon, announces that the car will be piloted by Lou Selme-mann. Mortimer Roberts has been given the mount on the Thais, a car designed and built by Mr. Robinson with officials of the Chicago Automobile Club, and of that number, eight have been nominated by private owners.

WILD CATS DEFEAT MIDGETS ON THURSDAY

The Wild Cats downed the Midgets after a hard tussle Thursday afternoon at the Orchard diamonds by the score of 6 to 5. Bidwell pitched for the Wild Cats and W. Doud was on the mound for the Midgets. The lineup was as follows: Wild Cats—Fox, c.; Bidwell, p.; Monsun, ss.; Cain, 1b.; Reilly, 2b.; Doud, 3b.; B. Sullivan, L. Sullivan and Croak, fielders. Midgets—Griffin, c.; W. Doud, p.; Erdman, ss.; Hunter, 1b.; Skelly, 2b.; Briggs, 3b.; Monahan, L. Monsun and Bertman, fielders.

Why She Stopped Talking. A very talkative little girl, who had been chattering away like a magpie all morning, suddenly became silent when a lady, dressed in the extreme of the fashion, called on her mother. Wishing to be amiable, the visitor said to the chatterbox: "Have you lost your tongue, my dear?" "Oh, no, ma'am," was the reply; "only my breath."

Dancing Once Part of Worship. We read in the "Book of the Dead," which contains the papyri of Egypt's most ancient seers and scholars, that dancing was a part of Egyptian worship. In fact, the hieroglyphics themselves, denoting adoration, triumph after battle, gloom at the death of a monarch or a high priest, were often figures of men or women in dancing postures.

ists had captured all but 21 of the 75 seats in the assembly. Morikubo, the ousted leader, thereupon invited his fellow victims to a meeting at which it was voted to dissolve the association.

The new organization now in power is known as the Municipal Government Club. They are not content with reforming municipal politics alone, however, and have already begun a vigorous campaign to establish themselves in the National House of Representatives, where the Seiyukai, or Conservative party will be the object of its attack. The Seiyukai has a large majority in the Diet, and since it is linked with the now defeated Tokiwakai, it appears to be in danger as losing its power.

The present Okuma cabinet is backed by groups hostile to the Seiyukai. If unable to carry through his program in the face of an opposing majority, Count Okuma would be likely to dissolve the Diet and give the people an opportunity to register their will at new elections.

An interesting phase of the suffrage question was seen in the recent municipal elections. The suffrage is very restricted, there being three classes of voters, classified according to the amount of tax they pay.

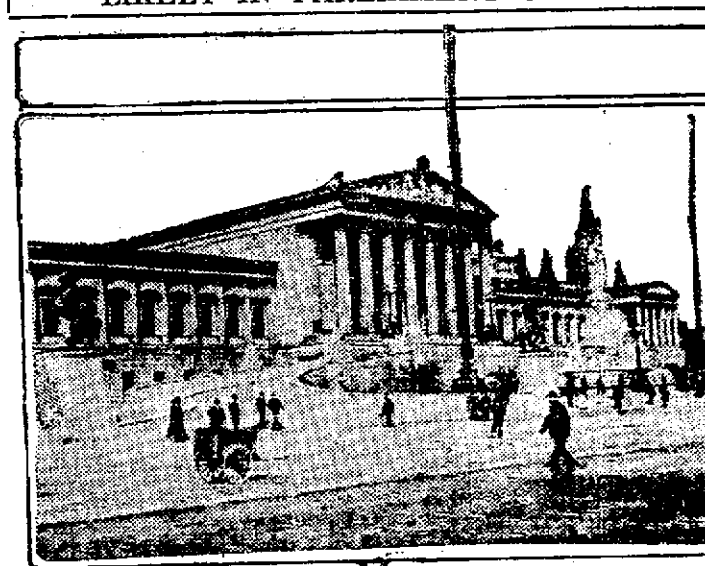

Taking the city as a whole about one household in thirteen has a vote. Each grade of voters elects 25 assemblymen. The voters of the first grade number only 1,187. The second category has 6,136 electors. The great majority of voters, namely 49,948, out of the total of 57,271, are found in the third grade. To be qualified for this grade the citizens must pay a land tax or else an imperial tax to the amount of 2 year.

MORE LIVELY DEBATES THAN EVER NOW LIKELY IN PARLIAMENT OF AUSTRIA

Austrian Parliament House at Vienna.

The beautiful parliament house at Vienna has long been famed for the riotous scenes among the delegates of various races that have a part in the affairs of Austria and especially those that affect the relations of the dual monarchy. More lively scenes than ever are likely there now that the Austro-Hungarian government has set about in a way that may affect all Europe and call for taxation and other measures that will surpass in economical significance anything that has gone before.

JANESVILLE PEOPLE TOURING IN EUROPE FACE WAR BLOCKADE

Big Ocean Liners May Be Impressed as Auxiliary Cruisers and Prevent Return of American Travelers.

A score or more of Janesville residents who are touring in Europe this summer face slender chances of reaching the United States for some time in case a general war is declared, owing to the fact that the big ocean liners will be pressed into naval service by their respective national governments or will be classified as war vessels of war. It is estimated that there are fully 150,000 Americans in Europe who will be thus constrained to remain abroad longer than they originally intended.

Among the Janesville people who are at present in Europe are Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Howe and daughter, Miss Hazel, and Miss Joan Muggleton; Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy and daughter, Miss Julia Lovejoy; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jarris and daughter, Mrs. M. G. Jarris and daughter, Miss Helen, and Mrs. Thomas Jarris, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wild and daughter, and Kenneth Parker and Mrs. Parker and daughter are now on their way to New York, having sailed before conditions became acute.

A large majority of the vessels owned by foreign steamship companies are subsidized by their governments for use in case of war, and in many instances are designed with this idea in view. They are capable of carrying armament and can be used as auxiliary cruisers. In this class are such monsters as the Aquitania, Lusitania and Mauretania of the Cunard line, the Hamburg-American boats Imperator and Vaterland, and many of the huge fleet of the North German Lloyd.

Today's dispatches state that the Imperator will not leave Hamburg on Saturday as scheduled. The Vaterland will sail from New York on Saturday.

If the conflict includes England, France, Germany and Russia, with a possibility of Italy also, there would be few boats that could hope to cross the Atlantic without fear of battle-ships or privateers. Traffic would be practically limited to the American line of the International Mercantile Marine, the Red Star Line of the same concern flying the Belgian flag; the Holland-American line and two Scandinavian companies.

The Canadian lines fly the British flag and would be regarded as such, though only the mail boats, in all probability are likely to be called by the government for war service.

MRS. KIDDER VICTIM OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Wife of Janesville Pastor Among Passengers Robbed By Two Road Agents in Yellowstone Park.

Mrs. S. T. Kidder, wife of Rev. Kidder, pastor of the First Congregational church in Janesville, was among the passengers in the stage coaches which was robbed in Yellowstone Park Wednesday by two masked highwaymen. It is not known the amount that Mrs. Kidder lost, but press dispatches show that she was one of the persons to lose valuables.

The hold-up occurred near Shoshone Point, between Old Faithful Inn and the Thumb Station, about eight o'clock in the morning. Two masked highwaymen, armed with rifles and revolvers, halted thirty-five stages that were in line, carrying 165 passengers, and forced the occupants to leave the stages and form in line. At the point of a rifle each passenger was ordered to deposit "cash only" in a gunnysack which had been prepared for the purpose. The bag was guarded by one highwayman while the other kept the last coaches from returning on the back road and reporting the robbery. There was no excitement on the part of the passengers, no shots fired and the robbers made their escape safely. The success of the robbery, in that two men were able to hold up the thirty-five coaches and 165 people, is due to the fact that no one is allowed to carry firearms in the park, and under the cover of the gun in the hands of the outlaws, the passengers were powerless to resist their orders.

About three thousand dollars is stated to have comprised the loot of the road agents. A reward of five hundred dollars has been offered for the capture of the two men and soldiers in the park are scouring the country for them.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE WOUNDS OF A FRIEND.
 "If you aren't satisfied tell me if you are tell others."
 The above is a very clever little advertisement which my grocer recently put up in his shop.

As a hint to customers it is excellent, but I think it has a far deeper meaning than that. It is the first clause of a contract. For if you are not satisfied, your friends certainly have a far greater right than you to be satisfied.

Well, I've spent seventy-five cents today that I'll probably never get anything out of. I heard a woman say the other day, "I don't want to be a friend."

I did an errand for Grace (naming a woman whose friend she is supposed to be) and I suppose she'll forget to pay me. She usually does. She's terribly careless about little things like that, you know.

"Oh, I wouldn't do that," with an expression of injured superiority. "That would be so mean and little."

As if it were half so mean as to give the woman a reputation for carelessness in money matters. If it were a friend of a friend or a mistake or an injustice as to tell someone else about it behind her back!

Another woman who prides herself on her generosity and justice shares a certain expense with a friend, and when the bill comes, she says nothing, whatever the conditions have changed since the proportion was made upon and this woman feels that she is paying more than her share. Of course she would go straight to the other party and say so. Instead she sits and waits until the bill is paid, and then she tells the matter right in the face of her friend.

It is not right to be a friend with a friend who is disturbed by her. It is not right to be a friend with a friend who is disturbed by her. It is not right to be a friend with a friend who is disturbed by her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you kindly tell me how to preserve oranges?

(2) Also a marshmallow candy recipe? Will you also tell me dice cake recipe?

DAILY READER.

(1) Orange marmalade. (2) Marshmallows. (3) Dice cake.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of sixteen. My father is dead and my mother is going with a man that is boarding with her. He has great influence over her and keeps her from buying me things she would like to do for him. He influences her to do things that are not to her benefit. Do you think it would be right for me to leave home? What should I do?

(2) What will take tan off a baby without injuring the skin?

READER.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are two identical sisters, both high up in the third grade. How shall I have my cards printed? I am the younger of the two. How will the older of the two have her cards printed?

(2) Suppose names to be Jane and Jennie. What initial will I put on my shirtwaist front, given or surname?

(3) Have a nice cellar with cement floor and when it rains hard quite often have some water on floor. It is very offensive odor. What can we do to overcome this?

A FREIND.

(1) The older sister's cards should read: Miss Smith. The younger sister's cards: Miss Jennie Smith.

(2) If the younger sister's name is Jennie Smith, she can use the initials J. S., or just an S, for the shirtwaist front.

(3) About all you can do is to sprinkle chloride of lime in the basement, especially in the corners. Also, to keep the water from coming in. And vacuum the floor. Lay down a layer of paper on the floor to carry off the water.

one-half tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley. When well mixed add very slowly three-fourths tablespoonful of lemon juice.

The Kitchen Cabinet

It is difficult to be always true to ourselves, to be always what we wish to be, what we feel we ought to be. As long as we feel that, as long as we do not surrender the ideal of our life, all our inspirations represent the true nature of our soul much more than our every-day life.

Max Muller.

Yet it is by our lives we are known and judged.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

While bran bread is so popular with many people it may be well to have a good recipe which has been tried and is well liked.

Bran Bread.—Take three cupsful of bran, a cupful of graham, a half-cupful of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in three-fourths of a cupful of molasses, one cupful of raisins, dates or figs or a mixture of the three, two cupfuls of sweet milk, stir and let stand a half-hour to let the soda act on the mixture, as it does not make it light enough without.

Bake in a large loaf two hours.

Nut Loaf.—To two cupfuls of mixed nut meats, using Brazil, pecans and peanuts, add one-half a teaspoonful of salt, next stir in six finely chopped bananas, when well blended press into a mold and steam steadily for three hours. Cook on ice and serve in slices. For sandwich filling sprinkle over a few drops of catsup on each slice.

Chopped Steak en Casserole.—Put two cupfuls of chopped steak in the center of a casserole, flavor with celery, salt, pepper, mace and a little mushroom catsup or Worcestershire sauce. Surround the steak with a cupful of pearl barley, pour two cupfuls of boiling water over it and bake in a moderate oven for one and a half hours. Keep closely covered while cooking. Just before serving cover with a brown gravy or tomato sauce.

June Salad Dressing.—Use any fruit combination with this: Beat the white of one egg, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one of orange juice and a third as much whipped cream as there is of the mixture. Serve very cold.

Portuguese Eggs.—Peel ripe, round tomatoes and scoop out a small hole large enough to hold an egg. Drop in an uncooked egg; dust with salt and pepper and grated cheese, with bits of butter. Bake until the egg is set.

Good Luck or Hard Work?

The question of failure or success is such a wide one that the majority of people merely touch on it and attribute their condition to luck. Do you know what successful men say about luck? They scoff at it, declaring that good luck is another name for hard work, which rarely fails to bring rewards. Evading one's responsibilities or passing over opportunities means a bad mess of life, no matter what name you tack to it. Want of forethought is something for which each person is responsible, and it keeps many a man providing property for his family and deprives good men of helpmates they expect to have in the women they marry.

THE ELECTRIC ILLUMINATOR

Latest Effort to Secure an Evenly Diffused Light for the Interior.

In the efforts now being made to secure an ideal system of lighting for interiors, a patent has been recently issued to a South Dakota inventor covering a new device which is designed to take the place of the usual lighting fixture. The patent has been assigned to one of the large electric companies of the eastern part of the country and the new system will undoubtedly be seen in some of the new buildings now under construction. A metal frame is constructed in the general shape of a box and this is glazed with a translucent glass having a smooth surface on the inside but a roughened and irregular surface on the outside, the effect of which is to transmit the light organizing from the lamp or lamps on the inside and project it in all directions. The result is a pleasant and evenly distributed illumination which reaches all parts of the interior and yet is not robbed of any of its strength or value as is the case where this diffusion is secured by other methods.

It is interesting to trace the development of Peggy's regard for Mildred Dietrick. Tom might rhapsodize till weary over the young lady's delightful graces and leave Peggy as stupefied and unmoved as before. Words and reason seem to affect her about as much as a brisk shower does a duck. For instance:

Tom had told at the table and with some pride that he had taken Miss Dietrick to a musical saint last Saturday and that she had worn an opera cape or something of the sort. She looked like a million dollars in it, Tom had said. And then he later discovered that she had bought the stuff and made it that afternoon. This seemed most commendable to Tom and he could see that it got a hand from mother. Peggy, however, was just able to stifle an impatient yawn.

"Oh, Bessie, what's that going by; have we new neighbors?" The child hurried to the window but returned to her question again. "That's no new neighbor, mamma. That's the Harkins girl. Don't you know her with a new gown on? Mamma, what's a chauntaqua?"

"A chauntaqua—The mother faced her little daughter and a crisis. To not know was bad enough, but to have the child know she did not know was almost intolerable. She did know what a chauntaqua was and had attended many. To save her reputation with her family she would have given a good bit, but she could not clothe in satisfactory words the definition of chauntaqua.

She started to explain. Her oldest boy spoke up: "A chauntaqua is the people's university—a place to go for time that knowledge simply had to be condensed for her to take it in. And the knowledge that was amusing as well as instructive was just the brand she was seeking."

One and one-half cups sifted flour; 1/4 teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K.C. Baking Powder; 1/4 cup shortening; about 1/2 cup milk; apples.

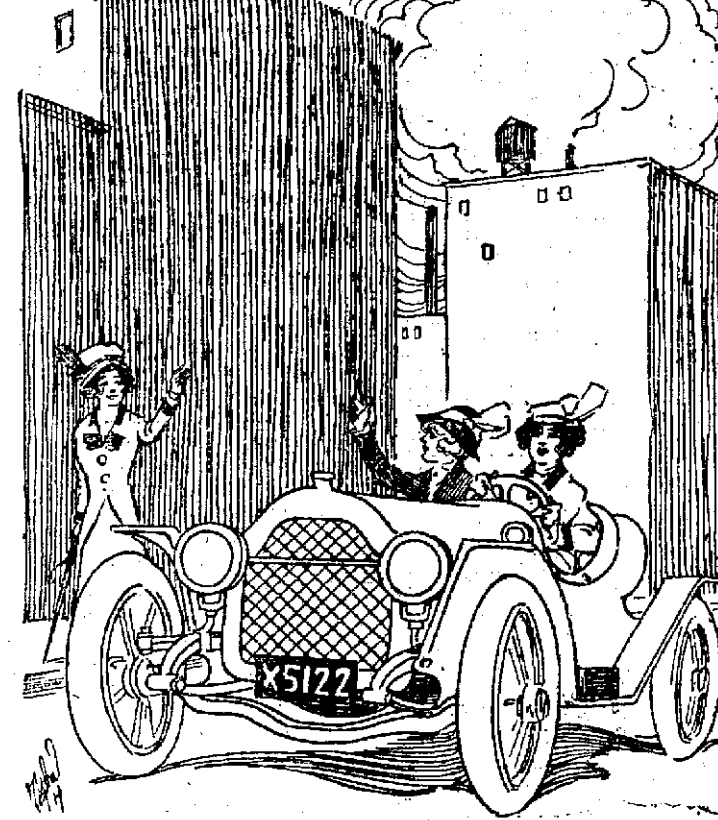

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix with a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving dish. Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
 The secret of keeping camellias skin and charming leaves soft and supple is to hang them up while still sogged.

To prevent the under crust from becoming soggy, as it will when baked with jelly fillings, mix half the sugar you intend to use in the filling of the cake and sprinkle lightly and evenly on the under crust before you put it in the fruit.

Shiny Suits—Sponge dress with hot vinegar and press in the usual manner. No oil of the vinegar will remain and the shiny surface will wear with all the wear and the garment will look like new.

If bread is to be cut while hot, heat the knife and go through the same sawing motion.

THE TABLE.
 Creamed Salt Codfish—Pick salt codfish in cold water three hours should be three-fourths cooked. Cover with lukewarm water and soak. Drain, put in cold water and add two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, stirring until butter is melted and mixed with fish. Sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until thick. Add cream gradually, stirring constantly, one cupful of scalded milk. Bring to the boiling point and let boil two minutes. Add one egg, beaten, just before serving to table.

Eggs, Southern Style.—Butter, eggs, salt, sugar, and milk. Beat eggs slightly, add enough salt and pepper and sprinkle with sugar of eggs or finely powdered cold boiled ham. Pour in hot water to half surround dishes, cover and bake until eggs are set.

Omelet Souffles.—Beat four eggs slightly, add enough salt and pepper and white and add four tablespoonfuls of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-half teaspoonful of pepper. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a hot creck pan and when melted turn in the mixture. As it cooks, prick and pick up with a fork until the whole is of a creamy consistency, remove an entire part of range to brown outside thoroughly. Fold and turn on a hot copper or fireproof plate. Pour over onion sauce, sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of grated Parmesan cheese, place in a hot oven and bake until cheese is melted.

Sausages a la Maitre d'Hotel.—Cut apart a string of small sausages and pierce each sausage several times with a fork. Put in a frying pan, cover with boiling water and cook ten minutes. Drain, return to pan and fry until well browned. Remove and keep warm. Pour over maitre d'hotel butter and garnish with parsley. For the maitre d'hotel butter, melt one-fourth cupful of butter in a small bowl and work until creamy. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of pepper and one-half cupful of milk. Pour over the sausages and serve.

Blue-Jay.—Blue-Jay costs five cents per corn. It is applied in a minute. It involves no pain or soreness. And it always acts. Think what folly it is to have corns.

Don't judge Blue-Jay by other treatments which have proved so ineffective. Give it one chance to show. A million corns monthly are now removed in this way.

Start today to know the joy of never having corns.

THE JOY OF NEVER HAVING CORNS

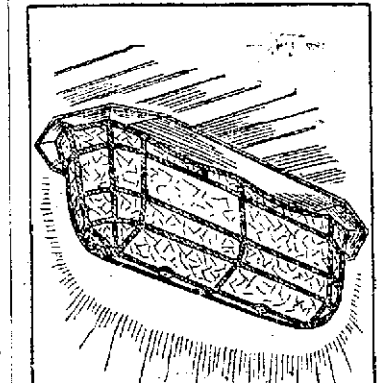

Since Blue-Jay was invented, millions of people know the joy of never having corns.

They apply Blue-Jay as soon as they feel a corn. And never again do they feel it. In 48 hours the corn loosens and comes out.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—A second formal statement in defense of the proposed Colombian treaty was issued last night by Secretary Bryan. DECREE OF FASHION IS NO WAIST LINE

Weekly Fashion Hint on New Fads of Dame Fashion Given by Margaret Mison.

To put his arm about her waist, the man of the hour must first of all get quite where her waist should be.

It is up and down, you see, and always under cover. New York, July 31.—The fashion days of Frank revelations may be the only part of the fashion that is left to the imagination. With her bodice cut so low and open to the elements and elements and her sheer lace skirts open to criticism the waistline is the only part kept within bounds. Yet as a boundary it is as contested a bit of territory as the ever of Doubt.

Here today and there tomorrow the waist line is wont to juggle its free and untrammelled anywhere from the knee up to the bustline. On one hand we are assured that it is to be done away with entirely like other wastepieces of the earth and then the porters for fall that it will be in our midst and all squeezed up to the first eighteen inch proportions. Indeed, it seems no idle threat that this autumn the dress of fashion will be the bourgeois and the feminine figure will figure at the eight once more.

and is yet guiltless of any convexity, basque or no basque. In fact quite the newest wrinkle is to have your basque wrinkled as if over an entire uncorrected figure. In its approved form the basque of the moment is cut in three or five pieces, but with very obvious buttons from the low cut neck down into its finish which is apt to be either at the hip line or well down below it.

White taffeta is quite the smartest fabric for the fashionable basque and is in indeed for the entire approved lingerie frock.

Time was when a lingerie frock meant a washable dress of the tub material even as was the fact quite the newest wrinkle is to have your basque wrinkled as if over an entire uncorrected figure. In its approved form the basque of the moment is cut in three or five pieces, but with very obvious buttons from the low cut neck down into its finish which is apt to be either at the hip line or well down below it.

Truly pretense of a tight under-skirt has been frankly discarded and the long full tunic, lengthened slightly, has taken into the entire and itself skirt, sufficient unto itself. Skirts composed entirely of founces of either lace or silk are very popular with the basque waists and some daring designers are actually showing models of the founced skirts over small hoops.

Pleated skirts are also right on the job in the fullness thereof especially on the dancing frocks. Fashioned from the gossamer lightness of Malines lace, chiffon or not those airy accordion pleated skirts lend themselves beautifully to the successful tripping of the light fantastic and the mazes of the maxixe.

A perfect gem of a dance frock is a combination of a black velvet basque with a frothy skirt of accordion pleated with net founces. Of course the basque is decollete and a red, red rose is pinned to the left shoulder. Worn with a high Spanish comb in the hair this costume leads one to expect its wearer to break into a fandango a la Carmenita rather than a maxixe or hesitation a la Mrs. Vernon Castle.

On The Spur of The Moment

The Modern Maid.

Maud Muller on a summer's day Raked the meadow sweet with hay. She helped her mother oft-times, too. As all good daughters used to do.

She washed the dishes, scrubbed the floor. And did full many a household chore. She wore no false hair and no pads. And had an appetite like dad's.

All rouge and beauty dope she scorned. And her's was beauty unadorned.

But that was in the long ago. She was old-fashioned, like you know.

Now Maud appears upon the street And is in style from head to feet.

She wears a skirt that is so tight She has to peel it off at night.

It fits so close that in the morn She was old-fashioned, quite, you know.

She wears her shoes so tight they hurt. And she is somewhat of a flirt.

For English she cares not a dang. And is well versed in George Ade's slang.

She lolls about in lounging blouse And cannot help around the house.

Her mother's cooking is passe; She much prefers a swell cafe.

She pounds out ragtime by the hour. And makes the neighbors grin and sour.

She's never very slow to state Her pa and ma are out of date.

Eternally she's on the go. But cannot cook and cannot sew.

Her relatives and friends are awed. And murmur through their tears, "Poor Maud."

They're very, very much afraid She's fixing to be one old maid.

The boys all think she's pleasing. mind. But they don't hook up with that kind.

For, with all her fancy stunts, She's just an ordinary dunce.

WORK ALWAYS AT HAND

A Crochet Workbag and Spoonholder Secured at the Waist.

The time of a housewife is generally pretty well taken up with one thing or another, but there are many chinks in the day which she would be glad to fill up with some fancy work, but it happens so often that the work is down stairs when she is up or otherwise, so that it seems hardly worth while to make a trip for this purpose alone.

The crochet workbag and spoonholder shown herewith has been recently patented and will be found to be of great value to the woman given to this kind of fancy work. In fact it will answer for many other kinds of fancy work. A belt to be secured around the waist has a base plate secured to it on which a spool of cotton may be placed and which will reel off the strand as desired without becoming entangled with its neighboring pieces. A bag depending from the belt secures the work and needles and other necessities.

Warning His Mother.

After little Edwin's mama had borne with his naughtiness until her patience was exhausted, she gave him a long overdue spanking. After the first sting had passed away and his angry crying had subsided into a whimper of griefed repentance, he sobbed mournfully: "You w-want to be p-petty careful, mama, how y-you 'p-ank me—t-ause y-you might c-ack me!"

When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a fearful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I started taking Resinol's Alternative. In a short time my cough was gone and was pronounced well. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."

ALONE IN THE WILDERNESS

By
JOSEPH KNOWLES

Copyright, 1913, by Small, Maynard & Co.

"When I examined him he showed considerable fat, which will aid him in resisting the cold. He had a remarkable vitality and much reserve energy and was altogether fit for the experiment."

"I fully believe that, with his previous experience to aid him, he should be able to accomplish his experiment."

CHAPTER XIII.
The Value of the Experiment.

ON Oct. 9, the day I arrived in Boston, I was again examined by Dr. Sargent, and the comparison between the two examinations was most interesting.

In commenting on my examination after coming from the woods Dr. Sargent said:

"Knowles is in the pink of condition if ever a man was."

"According to the system employed at Harvard, he tested 876 points before going into the woods and 954 on coming out."

"His test was 150 points better than the hardest test taken by the football men."

"He surpassed every test he took before starting on the trip."

"His total strength test was 974 points. A university crew test is 700."

"With his legs alone he lifted more than 1,000 pounds."

"The strength of his lungs increased five points on the manometer, while the capacity of his lungs increased forty-five cubic inches, a remarkable increase."

"Subjected to the action and the stimulus of the elements, Mr. Knowles' skin has become a perfect skin. It serves him as an overcoat, because it is so beautiful that its pores close and shield him from drafts and sudden chills."

"His scientific experiment shows what a man can do when he is deprived of the luxuries which many people have come to regard as necessities."

"No deterioration, only splendid increase of vigor and vitality, came to him as a result of this experiment. Forced to eat roots and bark at times and to get whatever he could eat at irregular hours, his digestion is perfect, his health superb."

"Mr. Knowles has lost eleven pounds in weight; his height has increased one-tenth of an inch; his chest has gained nearly one-half inch; his waist line has decreased two inches. Some little weight has left his hips and thighs. His calves have enlarged, due, of course, to his long tramps in the woods."

"As to the lack of salt, it didn't seem to affect him in the slightest."

"Sandow was perfect in strength and development; Knowles is perfect in strength and development, but has probably the staying powers of three

When I speak of the boy scout movement I do so with enthusiasm. This movement more than anything else to-day is leading the people back to nature.

Of all human beings the boy is the one who should take the burden of this needed education upon his shoulders, because the boy of today will be the man of tomorrow.

First of all, boys are naturally closer to nature than grownups. Then they have that unquenchable enthusiasm, which after all is the biggest factor in accomplishing big things.

There is more or less tendency today on the part of parents to take responsibility away from the boy. They are catering to his every wish and as a result are weakening character rather than benefiting the child, as they feel they are doing. There is an abundance of the so called scientific training and too little of the practical.

Years ago, in the days of our grandfathers, the boy was very close to nature. He had more responsibilities. He had his chores to do, and he had to act more for himself than he does today. Today all kinds of luxury surround the average boy. Even the sons and daughters of the very poor have their clubs and, having them, enjoy more privileges than the boy of means of years ago. The boy today plays mechanically and does not depend upon his own resourcefulness as he used to. He does not have to make his own toys. They are bought for him instead.

I never had a toy bought for me in my life. Everything I had of this kind in my boyhood I had to make myself from materials that cost nothing.

I remember once the delight I took in a bow and arrow I made. It would have been impossible for me to have gone into a shop and with money given me by my father to purchase such a weapon. My father had to use his money in other ways. However, best of all, the bow and arrow that I made myself was far stronger and more practical than any I could have bought. And I had the satisfaction of knowing that I made it myself.

There were times when I envied the boys who had the toys and good clothes. I often wondered if they had then why I could not have them too. I always had the ambition to catch up with those boys and to have the same things that they did.

I said to myself, "Some day I will have good clothes, and then I will be on an equal footing with those boys."

From that day to this it has been one continual fight, and I want to tell the boys right here that I believe that I am a bigger man because of this constant struggle.

I did not try to catch up with these other boys for the sake of just mixing with them. My ambition was to show them that I was as good as they were.

In my position of poverty the only way to show them at that time was to fight them, and I used to do this. I was a fighter with my hands. I could hold my own with any boy in this way.

My idea was all wrong. I believed that a man was not a man unless he could fight with his hands. If I fought with a boy and he conquered me I would meet him again. All this was before I used my brains.

Then I met men who fought with their brains. Boys, you all have brains. There is a need of fighting with your hands. It is a silly thing to fight with fists when a matter can be settled with your mental equipment.

I listened with great interest to these men who settled differences with cool words. They appealed to me. I believed in them.

I said to myself, "This is another kind of fight, and it is bigger and broader."

These men seemed to like me, and we drifted along together. I watched them and saw how they lived and how they looked. Then I would notice that people admired them.

IMPLEMENTS MADE AND USED BY KNOWLES IN THE FOREST.
At upper right hand corner is a birch bark basket. The crooked stick in the middle is his calendar. The marks indicate days. At the lower left hand corner is a berry cup made of birch bark.

I would say again to myself, "What can I do to become a man like these men?"

I knew these men had been educated in the schools. I hadn't. They were refined and could speak different languages, and I looked up to them. Boys, such a thing is one of the best things I know of. If there is some particular big man who is loved by the people and who appeals to you as being a big, worth while kind of man make him your ideal and work and fight to become a man like him.

Don't for a moment think that you cannot do this. Your success depends on your grit and determination. When you are discouraged, fight the harder. A man who always keeps at a thing is bound to win out. None of us realize what we really can do until we are called upon by necessity.

These men meant more to me than money ever could. They possessed something that money can never buy—big qualities.

I have seen much of life in the forest and on the sea. I know one thing above all else, and that is that a man must be fair to get anywhere. He must be true to his friends and true to himself.

The Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," is the best thing in the world to follow. It can't be beat. If every one lived up to it we would have a perfect world such as the Almighty wants us to have.

The boy scout oath is the embodiment of the Golden Rule.

Its laws are perfect. "A scout is trustworthy," reads the first law. A man in order to succeed must above all else be trustworthy.

Law No. 2 says, "A scout is loyal." Loyalty is one of the greatest words in the English language, because it goes with friendship. A true friend is one of man's greatest possessions.

Regarding the third law of the boy scouts, "A scout is helpful," I want to say that I believe this to be a most important law. Helping another is the truest sign of friendship.

However, I believe this doing things for others may be overdone. Perhaps I am treading on dangerous ground, but I do it honestly. I believe in aiding others only when they actually need help. If a person is ill he needs assistance. If a man or woman is in- firm, offering to assist them in cross- ing a street, or in other ways is the right thing to do.

If a boy can relieve his parents of responsibility it is again a noble thing to do. But the world is full of what I call "hangers on." They live like the bank beaver in the woods—on what others do for them. They have so much done for them that they do not know how to do things for themselves, and they become valueless. I believe every boy and girl should want to do everything that they can, for them- selves. By not leaning on the other fellow they become masters of them- selves. Depending upon their own re- sources, they can accomplish wonderful things.

I do not want the reader to misunder- stand me. I believe in helping others, but only where it is absolutely neces- sary.

Perhaps I can well illustrate this point by relating a story, which is told by one of the biggest Salvation Army workers in New England. One of the biggest and kindest men of the city met him on the street one day and said:

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

Little Tommy, who was about knee high to a half pint, was employed by a busy broker. One afternoon the broker was sitting at his desk trying to collect his thoughts as well as some coin when he suddenly looked up and signaled Tommy to draw near.

"Tommy," said the boss, digging down into his jeans, "here's a dif- ficult chunk of silver. Take it and hustle off to some vaudeville show."

"Thank you very much, sir," grate-

"Jones," said a man, "tells me that his wooden leg pained him horribly last night."

"Nonsense!" was the reply. "How could his wooden leg pain him?"

Laughter a Tonic.

Laughter has its place in every wholesome, healthy life. A man who never smiles is morbid. He has lost the joy chords out of his life. He has trained himself to think only of unpleasant things, to look only at

"Looking for work?" "No, sir. I'm in favor of extending the principle that requires the office to seek the man, to private employment."

Walking With God

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL
Assistant to the Deas
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT: "And Enoch walked with God, and he was not; for God took him." Genesis 5:24.

The fifth chapter of Genesis contains a list of men who reached remarkable ages; yet, with one exception, it is written of each of them, "and he died." This man, who walked with God, and did not die, is one of the most attractive figures in Scripture.

He lived in the twilight of revelation. There was as yet no Bible, yet he "walked with God." How shall he rise up to condemn us!

He was married. Some have thought celibacy necessary to the highest holiness, but Enoch refutes the idea. We actually knew a mother who declared she could not be a Christian until her children were larger and less exasperating! But we are told "Enoch walked with God after he begat Methuselah," and it is suggested that the coming of this little life into his was the beginning of his heavenly conversation.

He walked by faith (Hebrews 11:5). There is no record of him having revelations more than we have who also "walk by faith." Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God, and such a faith is basis enough for walking with God.

He pleased God (Hebrews 11:5). How indifferent this makes us to men's opinions! "It is a small thing with me that I am judged of men's judgment." How blessed to know we can bring joy to the heart of God and that we may "walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing" (Col. 1:10).

He warned the wicked. Jude tells us that Enoch prophesied, saying, Behold the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints, to execute judgment upon all. Those who walk with God long to bring to him "them that are without." Good men may, like Samuel Rutherford, lack the evangelistic gift, but they will have the evangelistic heart which made Rutherford sing:

If but one soul from Anworth
Met me at God's right hand,
My heaven will be two heavens,
In Immanuel's land.

He was progressive in holiness. He walked with God, and pressed toward the mark for the prize. The perfection of Christians on earth is very imperfect, and even in heaven we shall still be walking in white.

His Exit.
His strange departure proved immortality to be a fact, just as Elijah's translation later assured Israel and as we are assured by Christ's resurrection.

His departure was felt. Hebrews says that Enoch "was not found," as if they had sought him. He was missed. It is still so when a saint passes. Witness the multitudes that gathered at the funerals of John Wesley and Catherine Booth and Jerry McAuley.

He went out in the prime of life. He was taken when 365 years of age, and as compared with others of that day, this was just the morning of life, corresponding to the age of thirty-three now. We wonder when men are caught away just as their usefulness begins. But surely God does not deal unkindly with his friends. "To depart is to be with Christ, which is far better." "Taken away from the evil to come"—this might be written of Enoch and of many another saint.

His departure was easy. "He was not; for God took him," or as Hebrews reads, "God had translated him." The psalmist seems to apply the language of the text to death. Psalm 49:15 tells us, "He will deliver my soul from the power of the grave for he will take me," and Psalm 73:24 reads, "Thou wilt guide me by thy counsel and afterward take me to glory." As with the translated saint, so with the dying, the Father will stoop down to the child who has been walking with him and men will say, "He was not; for God took him." Spurgeon bears witness, after ministering to many feeble saints, that he had not found one to whom dying grace was not given.

Moreover, should we be alive at the Lord's coming, we shall be translated as literally as Enoch. (1 Thess. 4:16, 17).

The International Sunday-School Lesson

Motto for this week: "It is just as if the art of ship-building should be conducted without helms. Tall ships should be set afloat to be guided by the winds only. For such is the impetuosity of the sea of human life without the Bible." —George B. Cheever: "Pilgrim of the Jungfrau."

Third Quarter. Lesson V. Mark 11:1-11. THE TRIUMPHAL ENTRY. (THE STORY)

Jesus left the white, embowered villa on the east slope of Olivet, on the morning of a day corresponding to that of Sunday. He joined himself, in a conspicuous manner, to the pilgrim caravan on its way to the festivities of the Passover week. He was enthusiastically welcomed. The local pride in the local transfiguration of the Nazareth wonder-working Prophet of Nazareth. They felt it an honor to be his escort to Jerusalem. They took their way over the southern shoulder of the fig-and-olive-embowered mount. In the crowd followed two of the apostles to hasten ahead and bring the beast on which he should ride. It would not be necessary for them to catch it in the field. The crowd could be put there for his service. Mention of his name and need would be all that was necessary to obtain the loan of it. This comparatively insignificant incident, reported from month to month along the crowded thoroughfare, would serve notice of Jesus' approach. Up from a thousand pilgrims' booths, in the streets of Olivet, the public garden of Jerusalem, and the camping place of those who could not hold a camel in an eager throng; out from the city gate came pouring an ever augmenting multitude of those who were waiting for the signal of Jesus' approach.

Jesus was mounted now, and so in plain view of the largest possible number. He rode a beast considered appropriate for a sacred function—one never ridden before. As only an ox that had never worn the yoke was esteemed fit for the altar, so this foal that had never been saddled was meet for the Master's use. Such transport of adulation, loyalty, and that mighty throng as made all former oblations seem faint in comparison. The palm trees were stripped to provide the emblems of victory. Ten thousand albas were proffered to carpet the highway with a litter—a mattress of twigs and green grass was formed, so that the King's beast might tread softly beneath him.

And now the multitude, with that skill at improvisation which is characteristic of the East, bursts forth in a noble psalm of welcome, the rear guard responding antiphonally to the advance. From an angle in the road a glimpse of Zion is obtained; the splendor that awaits the pilgrim, the vision from the crest, as under the very feet of the pilgrims the whole glorious scene is unrolled. The great, white heart of it is the temple, with its ample courts rising in terraces, its snowy colonnades, its sanctuary, a mound of snow and fire.

At this goodly sight such a shout is raised as penetrates to even the star-chamber of the Sanhedrin, and keys to its highest pitch the murderous jealousy of the rulers of Israel as they say to one another, bitterly: "perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? Behold the world is gone after him." How different Jesus' approach! The crowd looked and shouted joyfully. Jesus looked and wept aloud. His human and patriotic heart is deeply stirred as, with prophetic eye, he sees the awful fate impending over the city which, in spite of his love, he knows not the things that belong to her peace. Some forward Pharisee, with ominous glance at the Tower Antonia with its Roman garrison, exhorts Jesus to suppress this demonstration. But Jesus puts the seal of his approval upon this test spectacle in the declaration that the very rocks would find tongues to welcome him, if the people did not come him. So the Messenger of Messiah came suddenly to the temple. But a vernal hierarchy could not abide the day of his coming. He calmly looked about as the divine proprietor of all. But his presence was like the refiner's fire and tuler's soap to the dross of the ecclesiastical establishment. It was night, and Jesus returned to Bethany.

The Teachers' Lantern.
The Triumphal Entry was not a mere passing incident—an accident of Jesus' approach. It was a very large event, an essential part of Jesus' life-story, which would not be entire nor harmonious without it. Jesus deliberately planned his entry—designed to make it as effective as possible. He was not captured by the multitude; he captured it, and used it for his purpose. The orderly procession of all his movements indicated this. The royal entry was an integral part of the history of Christ which would not be complete nor thoroughly consistent without it. He openly came unto his own. The issue was pressed. They must accept or reject. The test was not made in any dark corner either. Nothing could have been more conspicuous.

Was it mere coincidence that the Lamb of God came to Jerusalem on the very day on which the paschal lamb was selected and set aside for sacrifice? It was the 10th of Nisan. The admiring joy of the people, too, marked him also as fit and worthy. A triumphal entry, indeed, it was, how many points of contrast it presents to all other "triumphs" with which the world is familiar! The meekness of the victor; the lowliness of his equipage; the absence of captives and trophies; the triumph not by the chief of Church or State, but by the common people! Yet, in comparison to it, even Pompey's famed triumph pales. No similar spectacle was ever fraught with such significance for the race.

quaint pioneer preacher once said: "Jesus might have dammed up Kedron, launched a steamboat, and sailed to the city. Instead of that he chose the slowest, longest, roughest of beasts and rode to the temple." It must be remembered, however, that the ass is not considered contemptible in the East. It is a stately, traveler, swifter than with us. The white ass was the favorite animal of prophets and kings.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEVOTIONAL SERVICE

Twelve Great Verses (VIII). The Courage Verse.
(Consecration Meeting)

"Have I not commanded thee? Be strong and not go down in courage; be not afraid; neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest." After all, courage is a matter of the heart, as the very word signifies. A man is courageous on a field because he loves the flag that floats above him. A mother is courageous to toil and suffer because she loves her children. Loving consciousness of the divine companionship keeps courage at the maximum, saves it from the variations to which otherwise it would be subject.

If Triple All Alliance and Triple Entente Go To War

The triple alliance (Austria, Germany and Italy) would be pitted against the triple entente (Russia, France and Great Britain) if war between Austria and Serbia would result in a general European war.

Spain, it is believed, would hold aloof, as would Switzerland and the Scandinavian nations. Belgium and Holland, however, would be directly affected by a European conflict, and the former at least would be expected to throw in its lot with the triple entente.

In the Balkan peninsula a serious situation presents itself. Greece, no doubt, would join its ally of the second Balkan war, Serbia, Bulgaria, seeking revenge for its defeat, no doubt would turn against Serbia, while Roumania would oppose any move on the part of Bulgaria. The Turks, it is felt, could not be kept out of such a struggle.

The triple alliance was formed in 1882 to check encroachments of France and Russia, was made more definite in 1897 and again modified in 1902 and 1907. The agreements were renewed, extending from the late date of renewal to June 14, 1914. The exact provisions of the alliance have never been given out.

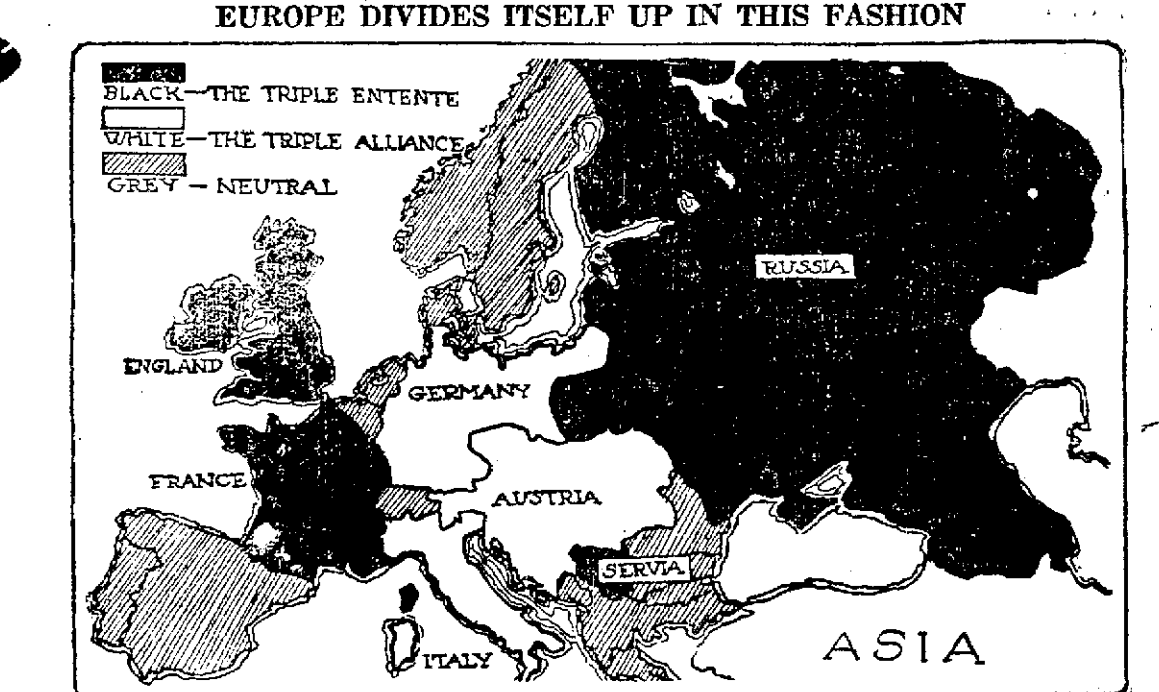

The aims of the triple entente, entered into by Great Britain and France in 1904 and by Russia in 1907, are: (1) The balance of power, (2) The strengthening of the treaty law in the interests of peace and the status quo, (3) Disarmament.

If any faith can be placed in the figures which follow, computed according to the latest statistics available, the triple entente can muster a larger body of troops than the triple alliance—$972,615, against $603,150. It must be remembered, however, that Italy's army is problematical, while the figures given for Russia include her large Asiatic army, which could not be placed in a European conflict.

The naval figures given do not include scout cruisers or the lesser miscellaneous ships of the several fleets. Austria has six monitors in its flotilla on the Danube and two more building for the same service. The naval figures are for May 1, 1913. Many of the ships included as "building" have since been put in commission.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, July 30, 1874.—The qualifications of this city for manufacturing purposes are receiving some attention. We shall hear shortly about watch factories and other branches of industry that are receiving some attention.

The Mutuals wore their new uniforms at the recent baseball match in Harvard. It consists of red stockings and white pants and shirt. It is just the trapeze which has been on exhibition in Milwaukee street for several days will be used under the balloon which will ascend from the fair grounds tomorrow afternoon.

The quantity of lumber piled on Court street bridge promises a speedy commencement of much needed repairs. There is much difficulty in obtaining the kind of lumber required, and all due diligence appears to have been used.

The Bower City band has been engaged to play in front of the Opera house tomorrow night. The orchestral band is also engaged for the "Maggie" performance.

The barometer had ceased to fall at nine this morning and there has been no storm in this city or the immediate neighborhood. We have not enough barometers to control the weather perfectly.

Robbing clothes lines is small business and yet there are men who will look up to it and people will do well to keep watch.

One of the parties interested assures us that there will be complete lighting of the Opera House tomorrow evening. Darkness visible is not the proper condition of a theater. The sidewalks in many parts of the city are simply deplorable.
